

Fictional family

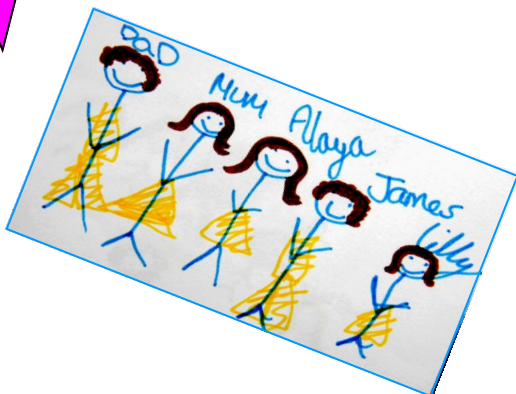

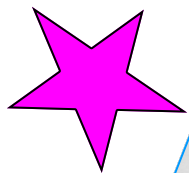

As part of the course, the children act out role-plays of a family.

These family members are fictional and are not related to their own family issues.

The fictional family allows the children to express their emotions in the drama, as another character and not themselves.

This helps to show different points of view within the family.

The Changing Families Group!

